of Pownal, Bennington Co.	*John Staunton

*The following persons witnessed the signatures of the * (starred) persons:

David Gardiner
James Merils
Saml Wright
Benjm Grover

(Of note is that when John Lawrence, Rev.
soldier makes his will out July 15, 1815,
a Polly Merrill is a witness to it.)

The following persons witnessed the signatures of the persons without a * (star).

Benjamin Stanton
John Lawrence
Stanton Johnson
Mary ^{her} Stanton
 ^{mark}
John Lawrence

(Mary, who makes her "mark", is believed to have been the widow of John Stanton.
Researcher's notation.)

(Of the two John Lawrence persons who witness signatures, one is believed to have been the father of the other John Lawrence, and father-in-law of Susannah Lawrence, wife of John. Although Lodowick Stanton's wife's name does not appear here she was Mary Lawrence, daughter of John Lawrence of Bennington. Of note is that John Lawrence made his own will out July 1815. Researcher's notation.)

Mary Johnson, being separate from her husband Russel Johnson signs free act.
(Of note is that she died Laurens, Otsego
Co., NY, July 14, 1816.)

Feb. 2, 1818
in Pownal, VT, his
free act:
Russell Johnson

Feb. 7, 1818
in Pownal, VT, his
free act:
Joseph Stanton

The deed was finally recorded July 11, 1818.

EXPLANATION: Because John Stanton died intestate, and had debts, his 90 acres of property was sold to his son, Lodowick, by the other heirs who were Susannah (Stanton) Lawrence, Mary (Stanton) Johnson, Sally (Stanton) Nobles, the daughters, and Thos. S., Samuel W., William, Benjamin, Joseph, Clark and John Stanton, the other sons. The daughter's husbands were John Lawrence, Russel Johnson, and John Nobles who apparently had to sign away the property, too.

The deed is confusing because the 10 heirs and three male spouses all sign on Feb. 14, 1815, and then some sign again on Feb. 15, 1815; some others on Oct. 4, 1815; Mary (Stanton) Johnson on Oct. 23, 1815; and then one spouse Russel Johnson on Feb. 2, 1818; and Joseph Stanton again on Feb. 7, 1818. The only son that does not sign twice was Clark Stanton. [A card found at Bennington Museum Library indicated that Mr. John Stanton had lived in the north part of Pownal, the town lands adjoined Bennington town lands.] The deed is very valuable because husbands and wives relationships are proved. (First class evidence in genealogy documentation.)

the early explorations made by the Pilgrims in 1620, while looking for a place to settle. He appears by land records to have been fairly well-to-do.

When he came over on the Mayflower, he left behind his wife and five daughters, planning to have them sent over after things were more settled in the Colony. His wife and daughters arrived in America in 1623, on the ship Anne.

Nathaniel Morton wrote in his book New England's Memorial, first published in 1669, the following about Richard Warren:

This year [1628] died Mr. Richard Warren, who was an useful instrument and during his life bare a deep share in the difficulties and troubles of the first settlement of the Plantation of New Plymouth.

Richard Warren is an ancestor to many famous Americans. Among them are Presidents Ulysses S. Grant and Franklin D. Roosevelt; and Alan B. Shepard, Jr., the first American in space and fifth man to walk on the moon. A published lineage showing Winston Churchill as a descendant of Richard Warren has a questionable generation and is most likely in error. However, Winston Churchill does appear to be a descendant of Mayflower passenger John Howland's brother Arthur.

Charles Banks mentions a Francis Cooke baptized on 6 April 1572, in Biddenden, Kent, England, son of Thomas. However, this person is about ten years too old for the Francis of the Mayflower. Cooke had been living in Holland about eight years before the arrival of John Robinson and the rest of the Pilgrims. His wife Hester was from Canterbury, England, so perhaps that is where he is from as well. Francis is described as a "Woolcomber from England" in Dutch records dating back as early as 25 April 1603.

Francis' wife Hester Mahieu was the daughter of Jaques and Jenne Mahieu, French Walloon refugees that had fled to Canterbury, England where Hester was born about 1584. When in Leyden, Holland, from 1603 until the arrival of the Pilgrims, Francis and Hester were members of the French Walloon church. However, in 1606 Francis and his wife left for a trip to Norwich, and they returned in 1607 to have their son baptized in the Church, and in 1608 they rejoined communion with the Walloon Church in Leyden. Sometime between 1611 and 1618, the Cookes switched and began communion with the Pilgrims' Separatist church in Leyden.

In 1620, Francis and son John embarked on the Mayflower, leaving behind his wife and younger children (who would come later when the Colony was more settled).

Will of Francis Cooke

BIOGRAPHICAL SUMMARY:

William Bradford recorded his list of passengers that came over in the Mayflower: "Francis Cooke and his son John, but his wife and other children came afterwards". Later in 1651, he writes "Francis Cooke is still living, a very old man, and hath seen his children's children have children. After his wife came over with other of his children; he hath three still living by her, all married and have five children, so their increase is eight. And his son John which came over with him is married, and hath four children living."

Francis and Hester (Mahieu) Cooke had lived in Leyden as early as 1603, about five years before the Pilgrims fled there from England. In 1606, they left Leyden to live at Norwich, England where they joined a French Walloon church; however, they did not stay long in England--probably because of religious persecution--and by 1607 were back in Leyden as members of the French Walloon church there.

FRANK B. LAMB.

Mr. Austin further assumed that Elizabeth Cooke (whose name and Land Evidence, book 1, p. 16), Cooke, came to New England in the Mayflower in 1620, with his father, Francis Cooke), who was married to Daniel Wilcox at Plymouth on 28 Nov. 1661, was the mother of all his children. But in a deed from Daniel Wilcox to Edward Lay, both of Portsmouth, dated 1 Aug. 1661 and conveying a lot of land in that town, the grantor, Daniel Wilcox, especially reserved the land where the grave of "my deceased wife" was situated (4b). This proves that Daniel Wilcox had been married to an unknown first wife prior to his marriage with Elizabeth Cooke. As his eldest son, Daniel, was married to Hannah Cook in Portsmouth before 1682 and probably as early as 1680, it seems likely that she was a son of the unknown first wife, who may also have been the mother of one or two more of the children of Daniel Wilcox. It would seem, therefore, that all lines of descent from passengers in the Mayflower that have been traced through Elizabeth (Cooke) Wilcox should be carefully re-examined. Cf. The Landus of Portsmouth, etc., by Edward H. West, in Rhode Island Historical Society Collections, vol. 25, no. 3, p. 65.)

The following proves that Edward Wilcox was the father of Daniel Wilcox.

Daniel Wilcox to John Briggs—all my Right, title, claims or interest unto any parcel of land granted within the limits of the town of Portsmouth, which was my fathers Edward Wilcox. 13th, 2nd mo. 1660. (R. I. Land Evidence, I-16.)

DANIEL WILCOX

Who was the first wife of Daniel Wilcox? Elizabeth Cook must have been his second wife, for in the deed to Edward Lay in 1661, he reserved a rod of land for the grave of his buried wife.

In a corner of a jog of land just north of this land are three unmarked grave stones. I do not think that they are Wilcox stones, but in the wall, where they have been moved from the middle of the lot, are three fragments of stones. On one of them is the inscription

"Samwell Wilcox 1689."

I think it possible that Daniel Wilcox (2) was the son of the first wife.*

Michael William Robert de Courcy, 34th Baron Kingsale and Premier Baron of Ireland, descends from Patrick de Courcy who occurs, on 17 July 1221, as one of the Magnates of Ireland. Patrick married a granddaughter of Miles de Cogan, one of the Norman Conquistadors, who went to Ireland with Strongbow. Patrick was perhaps a bastard son of the famous John de Courcy, the Norman conqueror of Ulster, who was devoted to the cult of St. Patrick and whose exploits were recorded in the early Norman-French poem, "The Geste of John de Courcy." The name, of course, is derived from Courcy, situated on the river Dives in the Bessin in Normandy. The Lord de Courcy claims, and the claim has been recognized by the Crown, the very apocryphal right to keep his hat on in the presence of the sovereign.

On 1 December 1759, Gerald, 24th Lord de Courcy, died without male issue and was succeeded by his distant cousin John de Courcy who, having proved his descent from David, a younger son of John the 18th lord (died 25 July 1628) and Mary O'Crowley, his second wife, was declared heir male of the house and was installed as the 25th baron on 1 February 1762.

This John, who went to England from Jamaica in 1748, had been "bred a carpenter at Jamaica," but he was a seafaring man, as was his father before him. He was born in Newport, R. I., about 1717, where his father, a sea captain, resided. This father, Miles or Michael de Courcy, settled in Newport early in the 18th Century; he occurs in 1706 and was lost at sea about 1724. Very little is known about him; he does not appear in the printed colonial records of Rhode Island but probably more can be gleaned about him in the delapidated records of Newport. He certainly mar-

Dear Bob,

Your letters arrived almost 2 weeks ago & was full of surprises on how much you have done on researching Joseph Stanton, Martha Tinkham and the Baldwin line.

When I saw in Joseph Stanton's line the name of Orin Stanton, I was very pleased. I've had him in a miscellaneous file. There are differences between your listing and my census and one cemetery data. I've included pertinent references or findings I have on an Orren L. Stanton.

But, first, is a "STANTON" listing from the internet and it has most all the names on the "Joseph Stanton" list you sent. Again, Marj Hennings in Ohio sent the list to me Feb. 2002~

1. Thank you for notes your father had on a death date. I must get around to writing Pownal, VT and have a person to research. (AND NOT USE JAN.)
2. The "book Gen. of R.I. Fam fr. New Eng. Hist & Gen. Register" is out of print.
3. BALDWIN and their ancestors. I will have to learn how to get this much info.
4. TINKHAM. I'll have to lookout for where this surname comes in again.
(There is so much I have to learn about computer hunting.)
5. JUDAH BURTON - This takes of lot of reading. I'm not the only one who gets confused.
6. JOSEPH STANTON ! I really did have info on family, but did not know it.
7. Figuring Relationships. The way you are turning our relatives up, we will all be going down, up and even sideways. Help.

B. Lawrence-Townley Chase-Townley - Bk. or pamphlet of an association in Burlington, Vt. 1865. The date interested me because in late 1980's I was aware of the Eng. Estate problem. First time I knew of any awareness in VT. by 1865.

Now, there is nothing very new in this response. I shall not try to assess what you have sent and finally JOSEPH STANTON has come home.

Ancestral Summary:

Extensive research has been done into the ancestry of John Alden, but nothing has conclusively been found. There are two major theories that have been presented over the years:

Charles Edward Banks, in his book The English Ancestry and Homes of the Pilgrim Fathers, 1929, puts forward a theory that John is the son of George Alden and Jane (---) and grandson of Richard and Avys Alden of Southampton, England. Since Bradford says John Alden was hired in Southampton, this would be a logical place to start looking for Aldens. No other supporting evidence has been found, and it has been noted by many researchers that the names George, Richard, and Avys do not occur anywhere in John Alden's family. Naming children after parents and grandparents was an extremely common practice in the seventeenth century, and the absence of such a name is nearly enough evidence to disprove this theory.

The currently popular theory is that John Alden came from Harwich, Essex, England. There was a sea-faring Alden family living there, who were related by marriage to Christopher Jones, captain of the Mayflower. It has been suggested John Alden may be the son of John Alden and Elizabeth Daye, but this is not fully proven either.

Two commemorative broadsides (elegy poems) survive from John Alden's 1687 death. The first broadside is by an unknown author, and the second broadside was written by John Cotton.

Biographical Summary:

William Bradford wrote, in his history Of Plymouth Plantation: "John Alden was hired for a cooper [barrel maker] at Southampton where the ship [Mayflower] victualled, and being a hopeful young man was much desired but left to his own liking to go or stay when he came here; but he stayed and married here." and later wrote "John Alden married Priscilla, Mr. Mullin's daughter, and had issue by her as is before related."

John Alden was an assistant for the Plymouth colony for many years, and was deputy governor for two years. His marriage to Priscilla Mullins was the subject of the Henry Wadsworth Longfellow poem, "The Courtship of Myles Standish", which although a classic has little factual basis. John and Priscilla were among the founders of the town of Duxbury.

In 1634, John Alden was on the Kennebec River assisting in the forceful removal of John Hocking who was illegally fishing and trading on land that had been granted to the Pilgrims. Hockings refused to leave, and when the party arrived at his ship by canoe to board and remove him, he shot and killed Moses Talbot. In return, Hockings was shot and killed. The Massachusetts Bay Colony took matters into its own hands, and arrested John Alden (even though he was not the one who fired the shot). Myles Standish was sent by Governor Bradford to obtain Alden's release, which he successfully did.

Charles Edward Banks, in his book The English Jacobites and Thomas of the Pyramids (London, 1929), puts forward a theory that John is the son of George Alden and Jane (—) and grandson of Richard and Avys Alden of Southampton, England. Since Bradford says John Alden was hired in Southampton, this would be a logical place to start looking for Aldens. No other supporting evidence has been found, and it has been noted by many researchers that the names George, Richard, and Avys do not occur anywhere in John Alden's family. Naming children after parents and grandparents was an extremely common practice in the seventeenth century, and the absence of such a name is nearly enough evidence to disprove this theory.

The currently popular theory is that John Alden came from Harwich, Essex, England. There was a sea-faring Alden family living there, who were related by marriage to Christopher Jones, captain of the Mayflower. It has been suggested John Alden may be the son of John Alden and Elizabeth Davey, but this is not fully proven either.

Two commemorative poems (elegy poems) survive from John Alden's last death. The first is written by an unknown author, and the second is written by John Cotton.

Biographical summary

William Bradford wrote, in his history Of Plymouth Plantation, "John Alden was hired for a voyage [first voyage] at Southampton & when the ship [the Mayflower] returned, and being a hopeful young man was much desired to fall to his own liking to go or stay when he came home, but he agreed and returned home," and later wrote "John Alden married Priscilla, Mr. Mullins's daughter, and had issue by her as is before related."

John Alden was an assistant for the Plymouth colony for many years and was deputy governor for two years. His marriage to Priscilla Mullins was the subject of the Henry Wadsworth Longfellow poem, "The Courtship of Miles Standish", which although a classic has little factual basis. John and Priscilla were among the founders of the town of Duxbury.

In 1634, John Alden was on the Kennebec River assisting in the forcible removal of John Hocking who was illegally fishing and trading on land that had been granted to the Pilgrims. Hocking refused to leave, and when the party arrived at his ship by canoe to board and remove him, he shot and killed Moses Talbot. In return, Hockings was shot and killed. The Massachusetts Bay Colony took matters into its own hands, and arrested John Alden (even though he was not the one who fired the shot). Miles Standish was sent by Governor Bradford to obtain Alden's release, which he successfully did.

In his later years, John Alden was on many juries, including even a witch trial--though in Plymouth's case, the jury found the accuser guilty of libel and the alleged witch was allowed to go free. Plymouth Colony only had two witch trials during its history, and in both cases the accuser was found guilty and punished.

John and Priscilla Alden probably have the largest number of descendants of any Mayflower passenger, but with stiff competition from Richard Warren and John Howland. They are ancestors to Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams, poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, and Vice President Dan Quayle.

John Alden's House built in 1653 still stands, and tours are given by the Alden Kindred of America. For more information, click on the picture of the house and you will go to the Alden Kindred web page.

John and Priscilla Alden probably have the largest number of descendants of any Mayflower passenger, but with still competition from Richard Warren and John Henshaw. They are ancestors to Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams (great Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, and Vice President Dan Quayle).
